Printed by J. Davy & Sons, Ltd., 8-9, Frith-street, Soho-square, London, England., W.

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

- I. The highest bidder to be the buyer. If any dispute arise the Auctioneer shall have absolute discretion to settle it; and to put any disputed lot up again.
- II. No person to advance less than 1s.; above five pounds 2s. 6d.; and so on in proportion.
- III. All Lots are put up for sale subject (a) to any reserve price imposed by the Seller and (b) to the right of the Seller to bid either personally or else by any one person who may be the Auctioneer.
- IV. The purchasers to give in their names and places of abode, and, if required, to pay down 10s. in the pound in part payment of the purchase-money, in default of which the lot or lots purchased to be immediately put up again and re-sold.
- V. The lots to be taken away, at the buyer's expense, immediately after the conclusion of the sale; in default of which Messrs. SOTHEY & Co. will not hold themselves responsible if lost, stolen, damaged, or otherwise destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the purchaser. If, at the expiration of One Week after the conclusion of the sale, the books or other property are not cleared or paid for, they will then be catalogued for immediate sale, and the expenses, the same as if re-sold, will be added to the amount at which the books were bought. Messrs. SOTHEY & Co. will have the option of re-selling the lots uncleared, either by public or private sale, without any notice being given to the defaulter.
- VI. All the books are presumed to be perfect, unless otherwise expressed; but if, upon collating, any should prove defective, the purchaser will be at liberty to take or reject them, providing they are received back within Fourteen Days after the conclusion of the sale, when the purchase-money will be returned.
- VII. The sale of any book or books is not to be set aside on account of any worm holes, stained or short leaves of text or plates, want of list of plates or blank leaves, or on account of the publication of any subsequent volume, supplement, appendix, or plates. All the manuscripts, autographs, all magazines and reviews, all books in lots, and all tracts in lots or volumes, will be sold with all faults, imperfections and errors of description. The sale of any illustrated book, lot of prints or drawings, is not to be set aside on account of any error in the enumeration of the numbers stated, or error of description.
- VIII. No Imperfect Book will be taken back, unless a note accompanies each book, stating its imperfections, with the number of lot and date of the sale at which the same was purchased.
- IX. To prevent inaccuracy in the delivery, and inconvenience in the settlement of the purchasers, no lot can on any account be removed during the time of sale.
- X. Upon failure of complying with the above conditions, the money required and deposited in part of payment shall be forfeited; and if any loss is sustained in the re-selling of such lots as are not cleared or paid for, all charges on such re-sale shall be made good by the defaulters at this sale.

Messrs. SOTHEY & Co. are prepared to advise intending purchasers, as far as possible, and will execute bids on their behalf, free of charge. Lots will be procured as cheaply as is permitted by other bids or reserves, if any.

- 84 BLAKE (WILLIAM) PLAGUE : water-colour drawing in dark tones : on the right, before a cottage, mourners weep over a dead infant; beside them a young man in a blue smock supports a fainting girl, stricken suddenly with the disease; in the centre a man lies dead and a cart removes the bodies of victims; on the left a young man and girl, seated, console one another; background of pillared porticoes before which a crier, robed in black, rings to bring out the dead watermark J. WHATMAN. 10 $\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ in. before 1790

 An interesting early drawing. For the group of a man holding a woman suddenly taken with plague, compare the mature drawing (1805) of a similar subject in the Museum of Fine Art, Boston (Figgis, plate 64). The same curiously dressed figure of a crier with his bell appears in the "Plague" plate in "Europe" (p. 7).

- 89 PROCTER (B. W., "Barry Cornwall") A. L. s. 4 pp. 12mo, 31 Dec. 1863, describing Thackeray's death and character :

Yes—poor Thackeray is dead. He wished to die in his sleep and he did so. Although he was not very regular in his habits, he was essentially a kind man and helped many. He studied our duty to our neighbour—which is one of the most important of any He did not value formal duties much, but he had great good in him. I am very sorry to find that he left no will. As his wife has long been insane, a good deal of investigation is necessary.

(née M^{lle}. MARGUERITE GACHET),

TO WHOM THE LETTERS WERE ADDRESSED.

Copyright in the letters is reserved.

- 119 CONRAD (Joseph), Novelist. A MOST IMPORTANT SERIES OF 105 A. L. s. (mostly J. Conrad, some Conrad only, some of the earliest C. Korzeniowski), to Madame Poradowska, of the Revue des deux mondes, authoress of "Yaga" and other novels of Galician life, Conrad's aunt by marriage, with two fragments of MSS. in all over 370 pp. 8vo and 4to, 1890-1920, all written in French with the exception of three of the earliest letters, which are in Polish (107)

 With two exceptions all these letters are unpublished, and as over ninety of them were written between 1890 and 1895 they throw much new light on Conrad's life before he settled as a writer in London. Several are written from shipboard, and give some idea of the vicissitudes of a sailor's life: others come from Libreville, Matadi and Kinchassa, and describe the writer's experience of savage or distant countries of which he made so much use in his novels. We hear something of his hopes and ambitions, of his struggle to make a living, first as a sailor, then as an author, much of his wretched health, and something also of his philosophy of life. He speaks of reading Anatole France, who left him cold, while Flaubert, Daudet and Maupassant aroused his warmest admiration. He frequently re-read M^{me}. Poradowska's book Yaga and always with pleasure, and occasionally discusses literary questions with her, particularly with regard to Almayer's Folly, his first published book. We learn, for example, the exact sum paid for the copyright, and the exact day and hour at which the book was finished. We hear much of the difficulties of composition, partly due to the fact that he was writing in what was always a foreign language to him, as he admits in one of the latest letters; and partly, as he asserts, because he was fonder of dreaming than writing and was always ready to spend hours in reverie before a blank sheet of paper: but the much re-written manuscript which accompanies the letters—the first page of Chapter XI of Almayer's Folly—shows how hard he worked when he set his hand to it.

He was naturally delighted at the success of the book, and was especially pleased with a long review by T. P. O'Connor in the "Weekly Sun." It appears from the letters that Madame Poradowska was to have translated the book into French, but the project does not seem to have been carried out. There are also occasional references to the tale known as An Outcast of the Islands, which it had been originally intended to call The Two Vagabonds.

In a letter of 1912 he speaks with satisfaction of The Secret Agent, in which he considered he had solved an artistic problem, though he knew nothing of anarchy or anarchists.

POSSIBLY THE FINEST SERIES OF CONRAD LETTERS EVER OFFERED FOR SALE.

L. s. and a Poem, 8 pp. 4to, to Carey, Boydell's biographer, 1786-1805: "The names of the principal subscribers to the Shakespeare . . . the late Lord Kilwarden who was murdered in Ireland almost immediately after my Uncle received the letter . . ." etc.—BOWYER (Robert) Acknowledging a guinea from Alderman Boydell for his "History of England"—BUTLER (Robert) A. L. s. to Carey, 1805, written on the proof-sheets of Carey's First Memoir of Boydell, folio, "As you will no doubt have something to do at the Shakespeare Gallery," etc.—ELLIS (J.) Auto. Verses, "On Miss Boydell at my Lord Mayor's Ball":
- If Reynolds our Apelles were to draw
A British Venus by Strict Beauty's hand. Etc.
- 162 SWIFT (Jonathan) MS. endorsed by Swift:
- "Mr. McAulay's Additions to my Will in Relation to the Hospital designed for Ideots, &c." The residue of the Dean's effects not disposed of, to be turned into cash immediately after his decease and used for purchasing lands unincumbered within 30 miles of Dublin or some part of Ulster. The first 3 years income from such lands to be laid out on the purchase of a piece of ground in the city or suburbs of Dublin, not above half an acre, on which a Hospital for "Ideots and Lunaticks" is to be built, to be called St. Patrick's Hospital. The profits forever after to be spent upon the comforts, attendance, etc., for the patients and the repair and enlargement of the building. Etc.
- 163 WILDE (Oscar) A. L. s. to Sherard (?):
- Enclosed is the praise of the Philistines . . . I have been speaking at Stratford about Shakespeare but in spite of that enjoyed my visit immensely. My reception was semi-royal, and the volunteers played God Save the Queen in my honour.
- 164 REYNOLDS (Sir Joshua) A. L. 3 pp. 4to, Brussels, 2 Aug. 1781, to Edmund Burke (signature cut off):
- "We arrived at Brussels the thirtieth and shall probably set out this evening for Antwerp, . . . nor have we seen any pictures better than we have at home. Ghent and Alost have two or three pictures of Rubens and Brussels perhaps a dozen, the people seem to make so much of his works that it requires some circumspection not to run on the other side." Refers to the absurd behaviour of the Duchess of Chandos to the Emperor. Proposes going to Dusseldorf. "The Chase is at the door for Antwerp." Etc.

- 165 DODGSON (Rev. C. L.) Auto. MS. on 5 half-pages, folio, headed in another hand, "The cats & rats again," and in the margin, "This is to be printed in the Monthly Packet, C. M. Yonge," discussing the abstruse mathematical problem "If 6 cats kill 6 rats in 6 minutes, how many will be needed to kill 100 rats in 50 minutes," the writer points out that the solution, by the ordinary rules of Double Proportion is 12 :

But when we come to face the history of this sanguinary scene in all its horrid details we find that at the end of 48 minutes 96 rats are dead, and that there remain 4 live rats and 2 minutes to kill them in: the question is, can this be done?

He concludes that it can, if the rats were killed in two out of four possible ways: other methods of execution would require 13 or even 14 cats. This, he says, is an instance of a solution made "indefinite," other problems may have impossible solutions such as;

"If a cat can kill a rat in a minute, how long would it be killing 60,000 rats?" Ah, how long, indeed! My private opinion is that the rats would kill the cat.

-  This manuscript was presented by Miss Yonge to Miss Finlaison (aunt of the present owners), who acted as sub-editor of "The Monthly Packet."

- 166 DICKENS (Charles) A. L. s. 5 pp. 8vo, London, Devonshire Terrace, York St. Regent's Park, June 10, 1848, to Angus Fletcher, a very fine and interesting letter regarding a proposed performance at Edinburgh by Dickens' company of amateur actors :

I don't know whether the fame of my amateur company of performers may have travelled into Scotland. But it has made some noise in England, and we have just been acting in London, Liverpool, Manchester and Birmingham to the unbounded satisfaction of the lieges. Object, the endowment of a curatorship of Shakespeare's House at Stratford; to be always bestowed on someone distinguished in Literature and more especially in Dramatic Literature, and to be conferred, in the first instance, on Sheridan Knowles.

Goes on to ask him what he thinks of the prospects of success in Edinburgh, and if he considers they are favourable whether he will act as secretary :

We could either play as the first piece, Ben Jonson's Every Man in his Humour, or Shakespeare's Merry Wives of Windsor, with (in either case) a good, merry farce. I would rather leave the choice between the two comedies to the local powers.

Having poured out this amazing flood of botheration (at which I imagine your hair standing on end) I will give you breathing-space, merely adding that I am very earnest in the matter, because Knowles has no earthly provision—well deserves one—and will have an honourable, dignified, appropriate and independent one through these means.

- 227 ANDERSEN (Hans Christian) Two A. L. s. on one sheet, 3 full pp. 8vo, Lausanne, 23 Aug. Locle in the Jura, Aug. 26, 1833, to his friend, Henrietta Wulff, about Byron, APPARENTLY UNPUBLISHED :

Heine took a very friendly leave of him. Went to see Victor Hugo. "In the hall hung Notre Dame—and a little gipsy-brat was running about—very likely the good Victor's." They discussed Danish Literature, but Hugo did not know Oehlenschläger. Has visited the Castle of Chillon. "You will remember Chillon from Byron . . . an old soldier was my guide . . . I grasped the iron rings of the dungeon. The old soldier pointed out the name of Byron which he himself cut into the stone in 1826. In the courtyard I wrote :

Wild mountains, sheety lake—
Sinister castle built on an island of rocks,
With you three things I believe in :
Liberty, Byron, and her!—
Spirit only makes a nobleman of man,
Blood has no such power,
Kings die, but Liberty lives,
Liberty, Art and love!

" . . . The nature here is sure to influence my Agnete, which I suppose you have read by now . . . On your birthday I intend to climb the Simplon and drink your health in the monastery there . . . be my faithful sister, as I am entirely your brother." Etc.

A full English translation is with the letters

The Property of Miss Pamela Hinkson.

- 229 THOMPSON (Francis) Poet. An extremely fine A. L. s. 7½ pp. 8vo, 1 Fernhead Rd., Paddington, W., July 15, 1892, to the authoress, Miss (Katherine) Tynan (afterwards Mrs. Hinkson, mother of the present owner, thanking her for her generous letter of thanks for the Sere of the Leaf, and apologizing for not having written earlier. He then remarks that he despises the conventional modesty of modern poets; for his part he thinks his own poetry is good and cannot understand that anybody is justified in publishing poetry unless he thinks it is good. He is particularly pleased that she likes The Making of Viola for its metre is based on a principle which has lain dormant since the decay of early aliterative metre—a principle which Mrs. Meynell calls the tempo rubato principle.

He proceeds to explain it and to say that in modern times it has been used intelligently and beautifully by Swinburne and Miss Tynan and unsuccessfully by George Meredith in "Love in the Valley," where it produces a pendulum-like monotony, instead of the variety which it should effect. He speaks at length of his admiration of Miss Tynan's poetry and recalls how he bought one of her volumes for two-pence at a time when every penny spent on anything but the barest necessities of life was a plank withdrawn between himself and starvation. Finally he refers to his verses on the Cardinal, and deplores the death of Manning.

PROBABLY THE FINEST LETTER BY FRANCIS THOMPSON EVER OFFERED FOR SALE.

Poppies. That, and a poem in your Shamrocks, sent me to y^e early English writers, where I studied y^e principle at its source, till I had thoroughly grasped its various uses. In Viola I designed to bring out its capacity for dance-like effects. Its capacity for dainty lingering effects I attempted to work out a year ago, in a poem unpublished. But I find that you have achieved precisely y^e same effects as this latter poem in St. Francis's hymn in your just published volume. Enough of myself. Only that if there be anything happy in y^e metre of Viola, you were my first mistress in it.

You must allow me to say how charming & dainty I thought your poem, Sweets. That delightful art of repetition, so difficult to achieve, is handled in it with fascinating effect. I hear that you are engaged to be married. Let me wish you all y^e delight that you have given

- 229D SHAW (G. Bernard) Two Auto. Postcards s. Kenmure, Sept. 1917, saying that “‘Immaturity’ was my first novel, written in 1879 and refused by every publisher in London, as were its four successors, and, unlike them, it remains in MS. (if the mice have not eaten it),” goes on to mention “Cashel Byron’s Profession,” “The Irrational Knot,” goes on to say that “‘Diana of the Crossways’ of Meredith is fifty years behind our mutual friend”; with others of Edmund Gosse, Havelock Ellis (7), Lord Alfred Douglas (12), and others (56)
- 229E BARRIE (Sir J. M.) Three A. L. s. 1917, etc. to S. M. Ellis, mentioning “Peter Pan” and George Meredith, with envelopes (3)
- 229F DICKENS (Charles) AN IMPORTANT SERIES OF NINE A. L. s. 1851-8, eight addressed to E. M. Ware, and one to J. Ward, mentioning the dress rehearsal of “Not So Bad as We Seem,” and he requires a purse for the first scene, gives amusing directions to E. M. Ward for his visit to Boulogne, cannot sit for his portrait, being busy with “Household Words,” has passed six days in bed and still unable to sit for his portrait; an interesting series, one short letter torn through and repaired (9)
- 229G JAMES (G. P. R.) A series of fourteen early A. L. s. 1830-1852; Tom Moore (2), W. de Morgan (6), W. M. Meredith, T. Watts-Dunton, Siegfried Sassoon, Hugh Walpole, W. S. Blunt, Lord Lytton, W. H. Lecky, Lord Macaulay, Shirley Brooks (43), and others (a parcel)
- 229H THACKERAY (W. M.) An amusing A. L. s. 1 p. 8vo, n. d. to E. M. Ward; when Lord Lovat was taken prisoner in ’45 he wrote to the Duke of Cumberland:
- “I was introduced to the King by the Duke of Argyle, and soon became as great a favourite as any Scotchman about the Court. I often carried your Royal Highness in my arms in the parks of Kensington & Hampton Court, to hold you up to your royal Grandfather, that he might embrace you, for he was very fond of you & the young Princesses.” Should not this be a good subject for somebody? Lovat was the greatest liar that ever lived but that does no matter.

 (7¼ in. by 5½ in.) GOA, JOÃO DE ENDEM, 1563

 FIRST EDITION OF THIS EARLY PORTUGUESE MEDICAL BOOK AND EXTREMELY RARE. King Manuel in his catalogue of the collection of early Portuguese books in his library gives a list of fourteen copies known, all of them except this one and his own copy in public libraries (vol. II, p. 647).

ONE OF THE EARLIEST BOOKS PRINTED IN INDIA. An account of the establishment of printing at Goa is given by King Manuel (op. cit. pp. 647-649). He attributes its introduction to the Jesuit Press at Goa before 1560, but no work printed by them is known to day. There are few records of João de Endem, the printer of this book. It is on record that he worked with João Quinquenio de Campania and that he was alone in 1563 when the Colloquios dos Simples e Drogas was entrusted to him.

THIS VOLUME CONTAINS THE FIRST PRINTED POEM BY CAMOENS, PORTUGAL'S MOST FAMOUS POET. It occupies three preliminary pages and is an eulogy of the author of the book addressed to the Conde Redondo, the Viceroy of India.

King Manuel gives many details of the life and work of Garcia da Orta, who was born at the end of the 15th Century. He lived in the East for more than 30 years, where he carried out the studies which enabled him to write his monumental work. Sir Clements Markham in his translation of the Coloquios into English, says: "There have been eminent Indian botanists since his time . . . But in the first place must always stand 'primus inter pares' the name of the illustrious Portuguese physician Garcia da Orta."

(7 $\frac{7}{8}$ in. by 5 $\frac{3}{4}$ in.) FRENCH. BURGUNDIAN, XV CENT.

 A LAVISHLY DECORATED BOOK OF HOURS OF THE BURGUNDIAN SCHOOL. The decorative borders round every page are executed in several distinct styles and are in some cases of a very unusual type. Following the Calendar the fourteen pages containing the Gospel Sequences are historiated with scenes from the lives of the four evangelists, the design being arranged to go round the four sides of the page. In the Office for Vespers and Vigils of the Dead are twenty-two pages with landscape borders also arranged round the page introducing trees, birds, hunting scenes, etc. Many of the borders introduce various animals, birds, butterflies, monkeys, naked armed men, naked climbing figures, monsters, grotesques and drolleries. In several cases they are of naturalistic flowers, birds, butterflies, etc., beautifully painted on grounds of liquid gold.

The last miniature in the book, at the beginning of the Office for the Dead, is more coarsely executed than the others, and is clearly by a different hand.

(UNCLE OF THE PRESENT OWNER.)

- 317 HORAE B.V.M. WITH CALENDAR. ILLUMINATED MANUSCRIPT ON VELLUM, very well written in a clear gothic script, 15 lines, 136 ll.; TWELVE VERY FINELY EXECUTED LARGE MINIATURES PROBABLY BY A PARISIAN ARTIST, all of them with full borders of pen-work sprays and spirals, gold ivy-leaves and flowers; each of them is flanked on two sides by a broad bar of burnished gold with diaper or foliate decoration in colours; each page containing them has also a large initial in colours on a burnished gold ground; other large and small initials and line-fillings in colours and burnished gold; modern red velvet with gilt gauffred edges (8 in. by 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ in.) FRANCE, MIDDLE XV CENT.

 A BEAUTIFULLY EXECUTED BOOK OF HOURS IN EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD CONDITION AND WITH VERY WIDE MARGINS. The twelve large miniatures are all finely painted by a very skilful artist, seven of them with diapered backgrounds of colours and burnished gold. The subjects are as follows: (1) The Annunciation; (2) The Visitation; (3) The Holy Family; (4) The Shepherds; (5) The Adoration of the Magi; (6) The Presentation in the Temple; (7) The Flight into Egypt; (8) The Coronation of the Virgin; (9) King David; (10) The Crucifixion, Mary and S. John at the foot of the Cross; (11) Pentecost; (12) Service for the Dead.

The list of test readings for the localization of Horae compiled by Mr. Madan does not include those found in the present volume, which are as follows:

PRIME. Ant. O admirabile. Cap. Virgo verbo concepit.
NONE. Ant. Ecce Maria. Cap. Virgo verbo concepit.

Eighty-four original Pencil Drawings of Ornamental Branched Bits, varying from 8½ in. by 5¼ in. to 5½ in. by 3½ in. in size, bound in 1 vol. small folio (11½ in. by 7⅝ in.), rebound about 1830 with the calf sides of the original Italian binding inlaid, these sides have a blind tooled double interlaced panel design WITH THE ARMS OF COUNT PETER ERNST MANSFELD (1517-1604) EARLY XVI CENT.
-  Count P. E. Mansfeld's bindings are very rare; no other Italian binding with his arms is known. This binding can probably be dated as prior to 1546—the year of his election as a Knight of the Golden Fleece—after which his arms were encircled by this order. It would seem that these drawings were specially made for the Count as we find his shield and initials "P.E." surmounted by a coronet incorporated in six of the drawings.

- 362 AUTORES HISTORIAE ECCLESIASTICAE. Eusebii, Ruffini, libri recogniti per Beat. Rhenanum, Froben's woodcut device on title and page 636, original Cambridge calf on oak boards, broad intersecting bands on sides forming a centre panel, the bands stamped with figures of lions, wiverns, and griffins, with a similarly stamped vertical band in centre of panel flanked on either side with a floral diaper design, with the mark "G.G."

of GARRET GODFREY, the binder, stamped ten times on sides, portions of clasps only Basileæ, apud Jo. Frobenium, 1523

-  An unusually fine example of Garret Godfrey's binding. The initials of an early owner "R.Ll." (? Sir Richard Lloyd, Royalist, 1606-76) are impressed in small letters on sides.

One of the inscriptions on the title-page reads "liber Guilielmi Vaughan" and the initial "G" is written against many of the passages throughout the volume.

William Vaughan was a poet and colonial pioneer and graduated at Oxford in 1597, after which he travelled on the Continent for some time. In 1610 James I granted to a "company of adventurers" considerable territory in Newfoundland for purposes of colonisation, and in 1616 Vaughan purchased from the grantees a part of their land—"I transported thither," he says, "certayne colonies of men and women at my own charge." In 1618 he sent out a record batch of settlers under the command of R. Whitbourne whom he appointed Governor for life of the undertaking. In compliment to Wales, Vaughan had given his settlement the name of Cambriol, while its place names included Vaughan's Cove, Golden Grove, etc.: the settlement was situated on the south coast at the head of Trepassey Bay.

According to Wood, Vaughan went beyond most men of his time for Latin.

- 367 AUGUSTINE (ST.) EPISTOLAE, MANUSCRIPT ON VELLUM, well written in a very good minuscule script, double columns, 30 lines, 128 ll.; on folio 3 verso a MINIATURE OF ST. AUGUSTINE (5 $\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 2 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.) IN PEN-AND-INK AND WASH, seated beneath an arch on a stool of two eagle's heads and claws; on the same page a fine initial D of floreated interlaced work; headings and initials in red; a few small wormholes; on the scroll held by S. Augustine the word AVGVST has been added by a later hand; ends imperfectly with the letter (No. 57) to Maximinus with the words "ne ppt' honores nrōs de qua sarcina/periculosa ratio reddit misere plebes"; ON THE WHOLE IN VERY GOOD CONDITION, old calf (13 $\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 10 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.) XI CENT.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 368 TERENCE. Leaf from end of the EUNUCHUS (Act. V, scene 8, line 35 to end) and beginning of the ADELPHI. MANUSCRIPT ON VELLUM, written in a Caroline minuscule script; from a binding (10 $\frac{3}{8}$ in. by 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ in.) X CENT.

 At the end of the Eunuchus is the subscription "Calliopius recensui. Terentii Afri Evnuchvs explicit."

Calliopius was a 5th Century grammarian and editor of Terence. This leaf, therefore, comes from a text which goes back to a 5th Century original.

- 394 PORTOLANO. MANUSCRIPT ATLAS ON VELLUM, 32 ll.
(two blank) containing a shield for the owner's arms, a table of declinations, an armillary sphere in gold and blue with a small Atlantic hemisphere in green in the centre, a very fine double-page Zodiac, the signs drawn and coloured in spirited fashion and enclosing a similar hemisphere, and TWENTY-FIVE MAGNIFICENT DOUBLE-PAGE MAPS, each measuring ca. 12½ in. by 8 in., illuminated in gold and colours, that of Europe signed BAPTISTA AGNESE FECIT VENETIIS ANNO DÑI 1555 DIE 24 MARCII; tables of terrestrial and celestial measurements added at end, ORIGINAL VENETIAN BINDING of red morocco over wooden boards, sides divided into three concentric panels, plain fillets in gold and blind, stamp of a leaf in blind at corners of inner panel, small compass within a painted windrose on inner side of lower cover, four metal clasps in the form of hands, g. e. armorial book-stamp of von Rehling, Hainhofen (10¼ in. by 7½ in.) 1555

 Harrisse, 18; Kretschmer, 23; Wagner, LVII.

The atlases of Battista Agnese, described by Nordenskiöld as "distinguished by a remarkable elegance and a technical perfection that makes them real works of art," have been discussed by the principal writers on cartography for many years past; most recently (1931) by Mr. H. R. Wagner in an exhaustive monograph and census published by the Bibliographical Society of America. Mr. Wagner has located in all sixty-three atlases in which Agnese's work can be recognised; one containing thirty-one maps, one twenty-nine, two twenty-six, one (the present), twenty-five, one twenty-three, and the remainder an average of eleven to twelve. Of these sixty-three, however, all but ten are in public libraries or institutions; and the majority of those in private hands are of the smaller type with nine to thirteen maps; only this and one other (with twenty-three) have more than thirteen. THE ATLAS NOW OFFERED IS THUS THE LARGEST VOLUME OF AGNESE'S WORK IN PRIVATE POSSESSION AND ONE OF THE FIVE LARGEST RECORDED.

The full contents are as follows:—

(i) Shield; the frame a characteristic example of Agnese's later pattern, with mask at foot; the shield itself uncoloured, but having the arms of von Rehling tricked in pencil (two piles issuant from the base each terminating in a quatrefoil)

(ii) Table of declinations; identical with that in the Huntington atlas illustrated by Mr. Wagner.

(iii) Armillary sphere.

(iv) Zodiac; a very elegantly coloured example.

1. Pacific Ocean. S.W. Coast of S. America blank; Yucatan a peninsula; no mountains in Peru; Gulf of California red, lettered "mar vermiglio"; Taprobana in gold, correctly shown as Sumatra.

2. Atlantic Ocean. N. American coast solid to Terra de Bacalaos; English coast in green; Red Sea in red and extending only half-way to the Mediterranean.

3. Indian Ocean, with seven painted cherubs' heads indicating winds. Taprobana as in (1). The names of the eight principal winds written in both "Spanish" and "High Dutch" (e.g. Tramontana-Nort, etc.; cf. Wagner p. 40).

4. Northwest and Central Europe. Fourteen monarchs enthroned, including Pope Julius III, Philip of Spain and "Rex Navarrae"; sovereigns of England and Scotland both "Rex" notwithstanding the date; mountain, as elsewhere, grey; lakes gold; English coast green, Scottish gold; signed and dated.

5. Spain and Northwest Africa.

6. Western Mediterranean.

7. Central Mediterranean.

8. Eastern Mediterranean. Head of Red Sea here correctly placed; Rhodes coloured red with a white cross.

9. Black Sea, with eight cherub windheads.

10. Grecian Archipelago; Rhodes this time with a gold cross.

The above are the true Portolan maps, showing no land details apart from coast-lines. Those which follow are "land-maps," having the land coloured green and its interior features more or less filled in. All, however except Nos. 22-25, are in "Portolan style," with windroses and "direction lines."

11. Sicily.

12. Malta and Gozo.

13. Crete.

14. Euboea or Negropont.

15. Lesbos.

16. "Sio" or Chios.

17. Rhodes.

18. Cyprus.

19. Russia and Tartary; three monarchs and various legends.

20. Palestine, with four cherub windheads.

21. Scandinavia. A fine map the only one having the sea realistically drawn and coloured, whales, monarchs and other figures, and a few legends; copies from Olaus Magnus' printed map of 1539.

22. North Egypt and Syria. On Mt. Sinai, a towering peak, Moses receives the Law.

23. Africa, with many native monarchs and Prester John (cf. Wagner, p. 18). Red Sea correctly placed.

24. Eastern Hemisphere. The western coast line of Africa left indefinite.

25. Oval world-map, with twelve cherub windheads. Voyage to the Moluccas, through the Straits of Magellan, in silver without lettering. Norway a peninsula to the North; Scotland (in this map only) projecting to the N.E.; no strait in N. America.

Nos. 12-17 and 22 are rare, none existing in more than eight examples.

(v) Four pages of cosmographical data.

(vi) Compass with windrose of thirty-two winds.

The binding-clasps in the form of hands are exactly similar to those on the binding of Mr. Yates-Thompson's atlas (Wagner, LI; H.Y.T. Cat., 2nd series, no. 96, illustrations, vol. III, pl. LXI-LXIX; sale June 3, 1919, lot 28). Other similarities show the two bindings to be probably from the same workshop, though the present one is less elaborately tooled.

The general condition is very good.

THIS FINE ATLAS, IN ITS ORIGINAL BINDING, SEEMS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST DESIRABLE, AS WELL AS THE MOST COMPLETE OF THE VERY FEW REMAINING IN PRIVATE HANDS.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 468 WESLEY (J.) A. L. s. 1 p. 4to, Jan. 2nd, 1769, to the same :

If I can't get proper Masters for ye Languages, I shall let ye School drop at ye Conference. I will have another kind of School than that at Trevecka, or none at all. I would within ye year, but for want of two things, Time & Money. So we must creep till we can fly.

 PARTLY UNPUBLISHED.

The Property of a Gentleman.

- 469 WESLEY (Charles) A. L. s. (initials only), and 2 A. L., in all 5 pp. 4to, Jan.-Sept. 1754, two from Bristol and one from Lakenham, to Samuel Lloyd, on religious and personal matters; one letter begins :

I thank you for your last, which I have received with the Razor. the wig I may come for, before Winter: tho' London is not my Place, and but for my few faithfull Friends there, I should not regret my never seeing it again.

Another letter contains an amusing account of a coach-ride :

We had a pleasant Journey hither, with a young Lady and 2 Clergymen. The Methodists and the Wesleys furnished abundant matter for conversation I langued in my sleeve; but my wife outright. The last Day I discovered myself which incensed our good understanding, etc.

- 470 WESLEY (C.) A. L. 2 pp. 8vo, Bristol, July 27 [1755], to the same about plans for going to Cardiff and meeting his correspondent at Dornford

 The letter is a long exhortation to friendship and toleration, ending with the following remarkable passage :

O, but Mr. Harvey says "You are half a Papist!" What if he had proved it too? What if he had proved, I was a whole Papist? (Tho he might as easily have proved me a Mahometan.) [words missing? Is not a] Papist a child of God? Is Thomas à Kempis, Mr. de la [word missing] Gregory Lopez gone to Hell? Believe it who can. Etc.

- 472 WESLEY (J.) A. L. s. 2¼ pp. sm. 4to, Manchester, April 1, 1766, to the same, on Sanctification and Faith; he aims to speak "neither better nor worse than the Bible":

In Food, Apparel & all things else, I advise all those under my care, to save all they can, with a safe conscience, in order to give all they can. And I never knew any one repent of it in a dying Hour.

- 473 WESLEY (J.) A. L. s. 2½ pp. 4to, Lewisham, Feb. 28, 1766, to the same, slightly burnt at the fore-edge:

You are exceeding happy in having "done with controversy," or rather in having never begun it, as necessity was not laid upon you. And he must be a madman, that will leap into the fire without necessity. To "follow peace with all men" is an admirable Help to ye following after Holiness. And even outward Peace, when we can have it upon honest terms, is an invaluable Blessing. Etc.
